Q1 2022 alerts by sport

Countries have been grouped following the official UN classification, except for Cyprus which has been listed under Europe.
* 1 eSports alert reported. eSports alerts haven't been allocated a country as it's not always clear where an event has been hosted.

I Trends

- 1 A total of 42 suspicious alerts on six different sports were reported to the relevant authorities for further investigation in Q1 2022.
  - This figure may be revised in future depending on the outcome of any ongoing investigations.
- 2 The Q1 2022 total is a reduction of 39% when compared to the Q4 2021 total of 69, and is also a similar decrease when compared to the Q1 total of 2021 which saw 64 alerts.
- 3 This reduction is due to a significant decrease in both tennis and football alerts. Only 14 tennis alerts were reported, which represents a 57% decrease on the 33 reported in Q4 2021, while 10 football alerts represents a 50% decrease on the 20 reported last quarter.
- 4 Of the 14 tennis alerts, six matches were provided to the International Tennis Integrity Agency (ITIA) as intelligence reports as they do not relate to events sanctioned by the main tennis tours.
  - However, some players engaged in those events may fall within the scope of the body's Tennis Anti-Corruption Program (TACP).
- 5 Europe, with 23 alerts made up 55% of the total reported, followed by Asia with 10 alerts.

I The availability of betting and the cost of match-fixing

650,000

sports events, including horse racing, offered for betting by IBIA members on average per year

99.96%

had no suspicious betting alerts identified by IBIA members

Source: An Optimum Betting Market: A regulatory, Fiscal & Integrity Assessment

The Optimum Betting Market Study, which analysed detailed transactional data from IBIA members, highlighted that betting is offered on over 500,000 sports matches, or 650,000 events including horse racing, each year. Of these events, 99.96% had no suspicious betting alerts, meaning that there was one alert for every 2,700 sporting events on which betting was offered by IBIA members. In football (soccer), 99.97% of all matches on which betting activity took place saw no potential integrity issues on IBIA monitored markets, while in basketball that figure was 99.98%.

$25m

per annum

is the loss to the global regulated betting industry because of match-fixing

Source: An Optimum Betting Market: A regulatory, Fiscal & Integrity Assessment

The Optimum Betting Market Study involved an examination of a detailed set of data unique to IBIA operators and a consideration of the related position within the wider regulated sector. It includes customer transactional data from proven corrupted events, along with amounts seized by regulated operators where there has been detailed evidence of suspected corruption reported. The subsequent analysis of this breadth of detailed data provided for the study implies that the global regulated betting industry loses in the range of c.$19m - $28m per annum from match-fixing, with a reasonable mid-point being around $25m per annum.
